The sentiment of the town, as expressed last night, seems to lean toward the Issuance of sufficient bonds to carry out the work at once. Others believed that it would be best to wait until after annexation, which, it is believed, will be bound to come.

North Richmond was incorporated as a town less than a year ago. Its first Mayor is We Strettl, who was elected six months ago. The town is governed by a Council of six members. Nearly 1,600 persons reside within its boundaries, and it is growing rapidly. The town has no separate school, but has the benefit of the handsome new Barton Heights School, which is in close proximity to the centre of the town.

Lowry has reason to believe from reports furnished him that the untaxed brandy was distilled in Foster's plant. A party, consisting of Deputy Collector C. R. Coleman and Special Employe Richards, went to Louisa yesterday morning to make the seizure.

For many years the revenue officers have suspected the Anthony family, who live near Buckners, of being wholesale manufacturers of illicit brandy. Last week an old negro woman found a barrel of untaxed brandy hidden near her house.

Shortly afterward several members of the Anthony clan at member of the law firm of Mercelith & state to give it up, took it from her by force. She reported the occurrence to officers, and an investigation was immediately instituted.

Big Party of Raiders.

On Monday morning Collector Lowry and Revenue Agent Chapman sent a force of ten officers into Louisa to round up all the suspected members of the Anthony clan at one time. One raiding squad went to T. N. Anthony's house, found two barrels of untaxed brandy and arrested Anthony and Henry T. Harris. Another squad descended upon the home of Sam Anthony at about the same hour, found incriminating evidence and arrested Lena Anthony. Martha Anthony and Bernard Anthony. Still a third section descended upon the home of Sam Anthony at about the same hour, found they have not been able to locate him.

The determination of a woman member of the Anthony clan almost balked the efforts of a fourth squad which visited the home of Obje Anthony. On arriving at this house the officers at once began to search the premises for untaxed brandy. After seme time they found a secret opening in the floor of the house and pulled up a barrel. Test of the house and pulled up a barrel to signs of a revenue stamp a woman who, as a few to the house and pulled up a barrel to signs of a revenue stamp a woman who, as a few to the premises for the conditions and provide the fore they could examine the harrie for signs of a revenue stamp a woman who, as the first of the premises for workingmen at the premises for working

MESSAGE COMPLETED

Governor Mann Will Make Recommendations for Tax Reform.

Governor Mann completed yesterday his message to the General Assembly, which will be submitted on, Wednesday. Later in the session the Governor expects to send one or more supplementary messages dealing with important matters on which he did not touch at length in the original paper. The first message will deal principally with the question of tax reform. As a judge on the bench, as a member of the State Sonate, a close observer of the work of the State Tax Commission, and as Governor for the past four years, he has had special opportunities of studying the question of taxation and the working of the present laws on that subject. It is understood that his recommendations in this regard will form one of the most important sections of the message.

After puzzling over the problem for some hours he laid the situation before Governor Mann. The prisoner is in the James City County Jail, in Williamsburg, and the electric chair is at the penitentiary, but just how the penalty is to be paid on December 13, 1913, does not seem plain.

Marlon Lee was convicted of murder in James City County, and on November 9 was sentenced to death on December 13. The court allowed a stay of eighty days in order to allow counsel for the prisoner to take
